In memory of Rhys Thompson (1938 – 2014) - 29/05/2014

NZ orienteer Rhys Thompson passed away peacefully on 29 May 2014 after a battle with melanoma, at the age of 76.

Fellow orienteers will miss Rhys's friendliness, and his obvious joy at being out in the open air, no matter how his course was going. Rhys was introduced to orienteering in Hamilton in the 1970's, but once hooked, orienteered all over NZ and internationally, including in the Australia NZ Challenge and World Masters.

Behind the scenes, Rhys contributed to NZ orienteering for well over three decades. When he moved to Whangarei to take up a job at Marsden Point, Rhys and several others, including wife Sheila, established the Whangarei Club in 1984, and kept this going 'til the early 2000s, when numbers fell away. Rhys then joined North West and became Club Treasurer in 2011. The NWOC committee appreciated his clear thinking, as well as his financial and organisational ability. In addition to orienteering, Rhys left a legacy in areas as diverse as motorsport, the Tawharanui sanctuary and SeniorNet in Orewa.

Developing the Junior World Orienteering Championships

The IOF Foot Orienteering Commission (FOC) was asked earlier this year by the IOF Council to further develop the programme of the Junior World Orienteering Championships (JWOC). The project group's report should be presented to the Council by October 2014. Introduction of a possible new programme should take place by 2018 at the latest.

Áron Less, as the FOC member responsible for JWOCs, is commissioned to form a project group to perform this task. The project group will be formed of former JWOC participants (current elite athletes), junior and senior coaches, past and future JWOC organisers, and other experts.

At the first stage, we are making an open call for ideas from different stakeholders. Any ideas from Federations, coaches, competitors, media, former and future organisers and everyone else interested are particularly welcome.

Please write an informal letter to Áron Less aronless@gmail.com about any ideas you have for developing the Junior World Orienteering Championships (any aspect of it).

The project group will then shortlist the most viable ideas and the Federations' official opinion will be requested. A very important stage of the hearing process will be a presentation of the ideas during JWOC 2014 for the national team coaches.
